SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. — June 1st, 2009 — KACO Solar Inc. has been gaining recognition throughout the United States for the past few years as the most customer friendly inverter company in the country. We are proud of the work we've accomplished and publicly announce that we are going to be known from July 14th on as KACO new energy. The change is significantly based on the desire by the KACO international group to incorporate all types of renewable energy solutions under the global KACO umbrella. We are upgrading our look and making our splash as not only a customer friendly organization but a sleek and industry leading inverter innovator. 2009 will be the year we launch many of the products that we've marketed for the past two years. We've developed a functional line of leading accessories and we're excited to showcase those at the upcoming Intersolar trade fair in San Francisco. We'll also be talking about the O2xi series inverters and surprise inverter developments that you'll learn about at the show. For free passes to walk the show floor email us.

The updated KACO Solar brand new energy will be appearing more often throughout the weeks leading up to July 14th. Our full launch of the new KACO identity at Intersolar will no doubt make for some interesting conversation. We are here to help you sell more solar and to make inverter installation easy and reliable. Stop by booth #9447 for more information on our dependable technology or email us.
