SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. — January 7, 2008— For the past year KACO has been offering installers in the United States superior quality grid connected PV inverters for great prices. Throughout the country the blueplanet series inverters have been welcomed by installers with open arms. KACO's less than 1% failure rate has been proven to be true and reliable. KACO is excited to announce they have now solidified a distribution agreement with AEE Solar to help maximize the availability of the KACO brand blueplanet inverter.

KACO will maintain a direct relationship with installers whenever possible. However, this fresh distribution relationship ensures the added availability of the blueplanet product. Through strategic pricing this agreement has made the blueplanet inverter more affordable to the smaller installer who will simply need a few inverters a month. This installer can not justify the cumbersome and usually expensive sales contract necessary to receive the competitive pricing of direct to installer sales agreements found when trying to work directly with KACO's competition.

This is an exciting development and will compliment our already existing and successful relationships with distributors like Think Solar (www.thinksolar-us.com) in Oakland, and Krannich Solar (www.krannichsolar.com) in New Jersey. "Most of our sales have been out of the state until this point. We are excited and confident that this agreement will increase use of KACO inverters in the state of California." mentions Sales Director Vince Lucia.
